Some visitors to the city yesterday were taken by some of the business men around the city, and the various industries pointed out to them. These visitors were men who had traveled and seen many sights and things, but they were nevertheless unanimous in the opinion that Raleigh was one of the most beautiful places they ever saw, and they remarked specially that the Raleigh cotton factory was one of the handsomest and best equipped they had seen anywhere. One of the gentlemen, who is quite wealthy, remarked that the best and safest stock he owned was North Carolina cotton factory stock.

The CHRONICLE was glad to see Mr. Washington Duke, of Durham, in the city yesterday. He is a very interesting and excellent gentleman with a head full of good sense. His magnificent gift to Trinity College and his deep interest in the education and elevation of the youth of the State evidences his patriotism and his generosity. He tells us that a meeting of the trustees of Trinity College will be shortly held, and that a plan will be agreed upon and work prosecuted. It is gratifying to find a successful man who is animated by generous and noble motives as is Mr. Washington Duke. The CHRONICLE hopes he will live long to do good, and that every year will bring him greater prosperity.

GRADED SCHOOL CONCERT.

A Tremendous Crowd to See Three Hundred Beautiful and Brilliant Children--An Entertainment Greatly Appreciated and Enjoyed.

A concert by three hundred children is a marvelous thing.

This statement is sustained by the very delightful entertainment given by three hundred children of the Raleigh graded schools last night.

It is said that one thousand people can get into Metropolitan hall. If this be so, there were that many people in the hall last night. It was full, as the saying goes, "from floor to ceiling," and then many people were turned away because there was not possible standing room.

The three hundred little performers of the evening were stowed away in some manner, in the rooms and flies on and behind the stage. This arrangement was successfully achieved by the lady teachers of the school. Ladies have a talent for utilizing space and compressing things into the minimum amount of room.

Prof. Moses can do a great many things, but neither he nor any other mortal man could have gotten those children into the space allotted to them without smashing some of them to death. In the care of the lady teachers, however, the children were all right. They were bright, sweet and happy; and they delighted everybody during the evening. Every resident of Raleigh who saw the entertainment felt proud of the Raleigh graded schools--proud of the corps of teachers, proud of the superintendent and proud of the children. There are not any other children in this world who can give so charming a concert as did those of Raleigh last night; and they were successful because they had the proper instruction and training by some of the best teachers to be found anywhere.

The entertainment consisted of ten pieces and one tableau. The first three numbers were chorus songs and recitations by a large number of little ones from six to nine years old, in charge of Mrs. D. T. Ward. They presented their part of the programme delightfully. Everybody was charmed and everybody applauded them.

A "motion" song was produced by a large class of very little folks--perhaps fifty--and as they sang they "suited action to the word" in accurate, rhythmic concert, with very interesting and pleasing effect.

A Mikado Drill was given by about twenty little girls. They were all costumed as little "Japs," carrying the inseparable Japanese parasols and fans, and by the use of these articles they presented figures and combinations that were very pretty indeed. This class was from the Murphy school, and was under the training of Misses Kate Hale and Myrtle Branson.

There was a calisthenic drill by girls, directed by Misses Bates and Roter, and a dumb-bell exercise by a lot of boys from the Centennial school. The chief feature of these exercises was the accuracy with which all moved together, and as a feature it was something wonderful.

A Gypsy march was given by a number of girls under the direction of Misses Strong and Pool. It was exceedingly picturesque. The little girls all wore the costumes of Gypsies, carried tambourines and presented in easy, natural style the characteristics of a great Gypsy camp.

"Postures" was one of the numbers. This was presented by the little girls in charge of Mrs. Ward. They expressed, in concert, the various emotions by position and posture, such as fear, joy, grief, pain, anger, happiness, &c.--a very effective and interesting production.

There were two recitations of special excellence--one "The Emperor's Bird's Nest," by Miss Ethel Bagley; the other, "Echo," by Miss Lizzie Briggs. Both these very young ladies are Raleigh favorites. They have delighted Raleigh audiences more than once, and though they are very young indeed, they are already known for their brilliancy and charming qualities in other places than Raleigh.

A cantata was given during the evening, including all the pretty scenes of Fairyland, with May pole dances, wood nymphs, water nymphs, naiads, lovely woodland scenes, &c. Miss Mary Steadman was the Royal Queen, and her singing was one of the delights of the concert. The participants in the cantata--there were a hundred of them--all appeared in the loveliest and sweetest dresses and costumes imaginable, and the entire production was a work of beauty.

The very successful entertainment closed with a magnificent tableau in which it looked as though the entire three hundred took part. It was a beauty and a delight, and was the end of a concert that was as much enjoyed and appreciated as any ever given in Raleigh.

The Concert to be Repeated.

There were a great many people--including the parents of some of the children--who could not possibly get into the hall last night, and there was consequently much disappointment. But they will have a chance to see the charming entertainment, for it will be repeated to-night.

At the close of the programme last evening, Mayor Thompson arose and expressed his opinion to the effect that it was altogether too good a thing to pass with one presentation. He wanted to know of the audience present whether it should be repeated or not, and proposed to put it to a popular vote. This was done, and the vote was unanimous in favor of a repetition. That settled it, and Metropolitan hall will be crowded again to-night.

Seats will be on sale at Lee, Johnson & Co.'s this morning at 9 o'clock sharp.

Sunday-School Pic-Nic.

Central M. E. church Sunday-school will picnic at Major Tucker's pond Thursday next. It will be a basket picnic, and a good time is looked for by the school. The school will meet at the church at 7 a. m. sharp, and proceed to the pond, which is about four miles west of the city. The infant class will be in the special charge of S. M. Parrish, who will see that the little ones are well cared for. No parent need be uneasy while he has them under his care.

THE BRYAN TRAGEDY.

Second Day of the Inquest--More Pistols in the Neighborhood.

Mr. J. C. S. Lumsden being summoned, testified to having had a conversation with Ike Williams on last Friday while fishing in Nense river, by permission of Messrs. Whitfield and Brown--from which conversation his mind was impressed that Williams was employed by Whitfield and Brown to watch their property, and that he had charge of the river and the woods adjacent thereto; that the same impression was made upon him by conversations at different times with Whitfield and Brown; that Williams told him that only a few nights before he had shot at some one he thought was near his traps--that Mr. Brown told him he must judge of character and let only gentlemen fish there--that on his way back to Raleigh he met Mr. Brown, with whom he had some talk and understood from Mr. Brown that they kept Williams to watch the premises.

Melvin Pool testified that he lives on the Kirk place, fifty yards from Brown's house, and three-quarters of a mile from where Bryan was killed; that he got home from Raleigh on Saturday last about dusk; that twenty minutes afterwards he heard two shots in quick succession in the direction of the place Bryan was found dead; that about one hour by sun Sunday morning Mr. Jones came over and told him of the killing of Bryan; that Mr. Brown was at home, but had not got up; myself, Mr. Jones and Tom Fowler went at once to the place of the tragedy, and were joined on the way by Mr. Ray and Robert Pulley; we found Bryan dead; neither Mr. Brown nor Mr. Whitfield came to the place during the day.

I. N. Hodges, being sworn, said that three or four weeks ago he asked Mr. Whitfield's permission to fish with hook and line in the river, and was told by Mr. Whitfield that he did not want any Hodges, Bryans, Pulleys, or Yarboroughs on his lands, approaching him at the time in a striking attitude; and told me if I went fishing on his premises I might get shot; that he had a man to guard the property against the Hodges, Bryans, Yarboroughs and Pulleys, and if he couldn't do it, he would send enough men to do so.

Ed. Yarborough testified that a few days before Easter Monday he asked Mr. Whitfield for permission to fish in the river; that Mr. W. declined to grant permission because some one had cut his and Brown's names from the notices that posted the lands; that in consequence of that he would not allow any one to fish on his premises. Had heard Bryan allude to having had two difficulties with Mr. W. that R. B. Lane, who lives on the Old Pool place, has a large coat, cap and ball pistol; that Paul Griffith also has one; that Mr. Whitfield told him he would keep people off if he had to hire a detective; that Pulley went to his house and told him of the shooting; (here witness repeated what Pulley told him of the killing, substantially the same as testified to by Pulley yesterday, except as to seeing the flash of the gun.)

An interesting part of Yarborough's evidence was with reference to the pistol brought from Pulley's house the day before. He said that Solicitor Argo had deputized him to go to Pulley's house and get the pistol. When the solicitor gave this order, Mr. Whitfield was in the court room and heard it. Yarborough started after the pistol and Whitfield left the court room at the same time. When Yarborough got within two hundred yards of Pulley's house he met Whitfield coming from there, but they said nothing to each other. On arriving at the house Yarborough found that Whitfield had already been there and gotten the pistol and was on his way back to Raleigh. Pulley's house is about five miles from town.

It appears, on inquiry, that after Whitfield had heard the order given by the solicitor in the court room, he went down stairs to the sheriff's office and asked the sheriff to deputize an officer to go with Yarborough after the pistol. The sheriff said he would attend to the matter in a short time; that at the moment he had no one he could send. Whitfield then said "deputize me and I will go." The sheriff agreed to this and Whitfield at once set out, arriving at Pulley's house before Yarborough and obtained the pistol from Pulley's wife on the ground that he had been deputized by the sheriff to get it.

John Norton testified that he never heard Mr. Whitfield or Brown say they had a man hired to guard the river; that Brown told him he did not object to his fishing in the river, but didn't want anyone to fish in the lake; said that the posting of their land was intended to apply only to some reckless transgressors who didn't care how much they damaged the property, and not to their neighbors who might ask permission--he called no names.

Here the coroner adjourned the inquest to Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

IT'S THE SIMPLE TRUTH.

Raleigh and Vicinity is a Rich, Glorious Place--Facts Prove It.

The CHRONICLE has stated from time to time that Raleigh and vicinity is one of the greatest and best places on this earth. Residents do not begin to appreciate the value of their surroundings and advantages. The U. S. official record shows that the climate is what is considered perfect--and the climate of a locality is everything, because it influences the nature of the people and also the productive capacity of the soil. Some people think that the sections further east or south are better adapted to trucking and growing vegetables and small fruits than this section. They are wrong. Mr. W. C. Stronach, of this city, yesterday said to a gentleman in Florence, S. C., five thousand potato slips, one thousand cabbage plants, and five thousand tomato plants, all these grown and matured earlier here than they did further South.

The simple fact is that it is almost too easy to make a living in this section. It is so easy that people are not forced to energetic measures; and this accounts for that apathy which exists to some extent here. If the capabilities and resources of this immediate section were made the most of, there would not be a more beautiful, prosperous place on the globe. It is already the most salubrious place.

THE CHARLOTTE CELEBRATION.

A Great Day and a Gay City--Magnificent Military and Fire Displays--The Military Prize Drill and the Victors.

[Special to State Chronicle.]

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 20.--The day was ushered in by the booming of cannon and blowing whistles. By 10 o'clock the town was full. All the buildings were beautifully decorated. At 9 o'clock the prize drill took place. The Raleigh, Wilmington, Monroe and Charlotte companies participated. Chief Marshal Brevard and his assistants, mounted on gaily decorated horses, did efficient service, and promptly at 12 o'clock the procession moved off.

It was headed by the marshals and following them was a float representing the thirteen original States. Next came carriages containing Hon. Zeb Vance, Col. Thomas Kenan and other distinguished gentlemen. As the carriage in which "Zeb" sat passed, cheer after cheer rent the air. Then followed the Mecklenburg veterans with over a hundred in ranks. Then followed various military and the largest number of firemen ever seen together in North Carolina. The Governor's Guards, Hornets' Nest Rifles, Wilmington Light Infantry, Monroe Light Infantry and Reidsville Light Infantry constituted the military forces. They were led by Col. Anthony of the Fourth regiment.

The fire companies present were three from Raleigh, one from Goldsboro, one from Durham, one from Columbia, one from Greensboro, one from Salisbury, one from Salem and the Charlotte company in the rear.

Then followed the finest industrial display ever made in North Carolina. After the parade a large crowd gathered in the tabernacle to listen to the favorite son of the old North State. Senator Vance delivered the oration and excelled himself, which is saying a great deal.

Gov. Fowle followed him in a short eloquent address and closed by introducing Auditor Sanderlin who proved his right to the title of one of North Carolina's most eloquent sons. At six o'clock a dress parade of the military present took place and was followed by the presentation, by Col. Anthony, of the prizes offered.

The Wilmington Light Infantry won the first; the Hornets Nest Rifles the second, and the Monroe Light Infantry the third.

THE WORLD'S COMMERCE.

NEW YORK, May 20.--Messrs. Hubbard, Price & Co. in their cotton circular to-night say: The Liverpool market opened this morning at an advance of from 1 to 2 points, but the course of prices abroad continues apparently without change upon the speculation here. The advance over last evening's prices is nearly 10 points. August sold during the morning as high as 12 26, from which there was a reaction to 12 20 and a quick recovery just before the close to 12 26 again. Our advices from Liverpool continue of a very confident character, and a further improvement there to-morrow will not surprise us.

Receipts at our ports to-day estimated at 2,000 bales, against 5,595 bales last week.

The spot market is steady at unchanged prices; middling uplands 12 1-4 cents. Sales 2,000 bales.
